

Abstract of the Disclosure

Systems and methods for idea adoption marketplaces. These systems and methods may employ, for instance, the reach of the Internet, the frictionless commerce of electronic marketplaces, and/or the power of collaborative systems for learning and social decision support to facilitate, for example, the publication, development and/or adoption of useful inventions, whether patentable or not. These systems and methods may support the creation of rich, flexible, accessible, and/or effective marketplace processes for purposes such as creation and protection of intellectual property and/or for its development for the public good.